

Whipcord Cedar

Thuja Plicata 'Whipcord'

❁ A dense, multi-stemmed evergreen shrub with fine texture and gracefully arching branches. Feathery sprays of dark green, scale like leaves emit a fruity odour when bruised. Green foliage turns bronze in winter. Older plants have ornamental shredding red brown bark

❁ Unlike eastern cedars it is rarely browsed by deer. This relatively fast-growing conifer looks beautiful as an individual specimen or in informal groups
